

Appendix A: Questions to analyze the texts in the first cycle

- What is the context of the depicted situation?
- How do people feel?
- Why do people behave in this specific way?
- How does this situation affect the people who are involved?
- How would you feel if you were involved in a situation alike?
- Are you familiar with similar situations in your context?
- What could we do to avoid this type of situations?

Appendix B: Stories and reflections about suicide suicide is a topic ^{that most people} the many do not like to talk about and without a bath is a painful situation that not only affects a person but a whole group of people around them. ^M most are caused by harassment, violence and physical aggression that is experienced in the different social environments in which we coexist. ^{experiences} the levels of stress and aggression, insecurity and vulnerability that ^{are} the experienced on a daily basis ^{that} undermine the mental health of all individuals, especially the majority of young people who report ^{experiencing} high ^{levels} of anxiety over the expectation of a promising future and the pressure of adults to cover a series of standard activities that ensure a better future.

1. One night, I was talking to a group of friends by messages, and they had realized learned that a common acquaintance who had committed suicide, so they told me. The reason for ^{his/her} their suicide is unknown for a ^{long} time, although the bad tongues say that it was because of harassment within his family.

It seems to me?

2. I seems to me that it is a very difficult subject to deal with the world openly since some controversy can be generated, but people should know and know more about this problem so that they can help someone who goes through this and that people who do not face these situations understand others and do not say things such as trying to get attention.

Appendix C: Posters created by students to carry out the campaign against suicide

